

Get Twice the Productivity for Half the Cost with a Converged Network and Cisco IP Freedom from A&E Computer Solutions, Inc..

Only true IP Communications can set you free from the high cost of having to manage and maintain two separate networks for voice and data. IP Communications can also lower your network administration and maintenance costs—enabling you to streamline your everyday business practices.

Now, A&E Computer Solutions, Inc. can show you how to get the most from IP Communications—for less—with the Cisco IP Freedom program.

The easy way to move to IP

Let A&E Computer Solutions, Inc., a Cisco IP Communications Express Specialization Specialized Partner show you how to avoid technology bottlenecks and potholes, and speed you safely to your destination while providing:

- Lower cost – IP phones typically cost no more today than the equivalent digital desk phone. And, when you factor in total cost of ownership, you'll find Cisco IP Communications can actually save your organization a substantial amount of money.
- Maximum return on investment – By lowering your network administration and maintenance costs, giving your employees maximum mobility and enabling you to streamline your everyday business practices, you'll discover that your Cisco IP Communications investment pays for itself even faster.
- Investment protection – Leverage your existing investments in time-division multiplexing by migrating to Cisco IP Communications at your own pace and integrating it with your existing PBX equipment. Standards-based solutions also give you ironclad investment protection because you can implement virtually any web-based application, maximizing your productivity gains and your ROI.
